

Cliffs green home recognized by AIA

GSA Daily Staff Report
Published Feb. 15, 2010

The American Institute of Architects recognized the Mountain Park Green Home at The Cliffs at Mountain Park through its AIA Greenville 2009 Design Awards, which aim to celebrate the best of Greenville's newest architecture.

Johnston Design Group is the architect of the home. Postcard from Paris is the interior design firm. Tutman Group is the builder.

"This award program not only recognizes outstanding design but also promotes the remarkable talent and work of Greenville architects, designers and builders," said Jeff Tiddy, chairman of the 2009 design awards. "Greenville is home to a host of creative, innovative and environmentally sensitive professionals. This program highlights their efforts and the results."

The home also was recognized in a national design contest sponsored by Southern Accents magazine and the American Society of Interior Designers.

"This home serves as an excellent example of how people can have both a responsible, environmentally sensitive house, as well as a beautiful, livable home with top-of-the-line features and creature comforts," said Scott Beville, president of Cliffs Real Estate Inc. "This recognition reinforces that environmental stewardship can be attractive and comfortable."

Johnston Design Group specializes in sustainable architecture with the aim that every building should enhance the well-being of its occupants, achieve economy through conservation and honor the natural resources inherent in every site. Founded in 2001, the Greenville studio offers sustainable design consulting and the authoring of green design guides, conservation development planning, historic preservation and adaptive reuse consulting, and architectural services.

Postcard from Paris is a full-service interior design firm with a 15,000-square-foot retail showroom and design center in Greenville's historic West End.

Tutman Group is a full-service construction and development company that aims to build sustainable homes that are both energy efficient and make good use of our land's resources. Founded in 2006 by Jeff Tutman, the company is both LEED and EarthCraft certified.

Founded in 1991 by Jim Anthony, The Cliffs Communities is devoted to the sensible development of residential communities and other properties. The Cliffs' domestic properties include eight private master-planned residential communities in the Carolina Preserve between Asheville and Greenville, collectively bordered by hundreds of thousands of acres of national forests and state parks.

Do you give this article a thumbs up?  Yes